Ireland performance trips are loaded with iconic performance opportunities and unforgettable educational experiences for your group. Music Travel Consultants offers a plethora of Ireland performance opportunities. No matter if you are performing at the popular St. Patrick's Day Parade, the historical St. Patrick's Cathedral, Christ Church Cathedral, St. Canice's Cathedral, Kylemore Abbey, or taking an educational intensive lesson at the Killarney School of Music, The luck of the Irish is the gorgeous green island they call home. It is a magical place abounding with poetry, music, dance, storytelling, castles and more! The legendary traditional Irish music is known around the globe. Its rich nature has captured the attention of listeners everywhere. Irish music's origins can be followed back to around 2,000 years ago when the Celts arrived in Ireland. Having been established in Eastern Europe since 500BC, the Celts were unquestionably influenced by the music of the East, and indeed, it is hypothesized that the Irish Harp originated in Egypt. While traveling to Ireland, the Celts left their stamp on the musical cultures of Spain and Brittany as well as in Scotland and Wales. However, it is here in Ireland that the tradition has evolved most passionately, flourished most strongly, and survived most courageously. A memorable performance opportunity for past groups has been the St. Patrick's Day Parade. As the national holiday that is celebrated in more countries around the world than any other, St. Patrick's Day is the day when everyone wants to be Irish, and there is no better way to experience it!
